TO BE PAVED WITH BRICK

Commissioners Order Improvement of Main and Second Streets Under Three-Mile Law.

VOTE OF BOARD UNANIMOUS

Will Advertise That They Will Receive Bids on Construction on Tuesday, June 7.

TO BE STARTED SOON AFTER

Comes After Twenty-one Months
Battle in Courts—Main Street
Petition Filed Sept., 1908.

At their adjourned session this afternoon, the county commissioners ordered the paving of Main and Second streets under the three-mile gravel road law, as petitioned. They ordered that advertisements be made, that bids for the construction would be received by them in session on Tuesday, June 7. The commissioners made the order after the two petitions had been remanded back to their court by Judge Will Sparks of the circuit court.

When the bids are received the first week in June the contract will be awarded and it is very probable that the construction will be started immediately. The Main street paving will run from Cavitt's hill, north of the city corporation line to the edge of Jersey City, where the road branches. The Second street pavement will run from the East Hill cemetery into the city on Second street to Jackson street, thence up Buena Vista avenue to Third street and west on Third street to the bridge over Hodges branch. This is according to the petition as improvement could not be made on any street under the three-mile law which does not begin and end on a country pike.

The county commissioners said that they saw no way out of the matter other than to order the improvement since the recent decision rendered by the supreme court. The board has once turned down both petitions on the ground of their unconstitutionality. The supreme court found that any kind of material could be used in improvement under the three-mile law, which gave the local board an opening to order the construction of the two streets, as that was the point on which the argument hinged.

The members of the board of commissioners were unanimous in voting the order. It was said that one member of the board would not vote for the improvement under any consideration, but this was merely rumor as he raised no objection to the vote this afternoon. The commissioners refused to act on the matter last Monday when the petitions were remanded back to them, as they wanted time to consider the matter and did not wish to take any hasty action. There was no fight made before the board today to stop the ordering of the improvement. Most of the remonstrators who have been waging a bitter war against the improvement seem resigned to their fate and refused to take any action today.

There has been considerable talk of a compromise since the returning of the decision by the supreme court a few weeks ago. The remonstrators offered a liberal compromise to the petitioners who refused it on the grounds that the commissioners could be compelled to order the improvement. The remonstrators wanted to stop the brick at the corporation line and finish the remainder of the street with macadam. But the petitioners steadfastly held out for the improvement as petitioned.

For the last few weeks rumors of compromises have been going the rounds, but nothing had really been accomplished. Last Monday, Megee & Kiplinger, as attorneys for the petitioners, filed a petition for a review of the Main street case, which had been decided for the remonstrators by Special Judge Hanna of Indianapolis. The petition was granted by Judge Sparks and the case was remanded back to the commissioners with the instructions to order the construction as per decree. The Second street case, the decision of which was pending in the circuit court, was also remanded back to the commissioners with the same instructions.

The Main street case was first filed in the commissioners court in September, 1908, and was decided for the remonstrators on the grounds that it was unconstitutional to construct city streets under the three-mile law. The case was appealed to the circuit court and the argument heard. Special Judge Hannah also returned a decision for the remonstrators on the ground that the clause "and other material" did not include brick and that it was not the intent of the legislators to improve city streets under the law. The petitioners were preparing an appeal to the supreme court when the decision was returned recently. The Second street case went through the same procedure and was pending in the circuit court, the argument having been heard, when it was remanded back to the commissioners.

JURY DISAGREES IN LIQUOR CASE

Fails to Return Decision in Roth Suit
After Being Out For Five Hours.

CASE TODAY WAS POSTPONED

The jury in the case of the State against August Roth for liquor law violation on an indictment returned by the grand jury disagreed last night after being out five hours. They took the case at four o'clock and were out until nine, failing to come to any decision. It is said that the jury was about evenly divided for conviction and acquittal. The case will be tried again.

The case of the State vs. Barrett & O'Neil on a similar charge returned by the grand jury, which was set for today was continued on account of one of the parties interested in the case being sick.

PREACHES AT MILROY.

MOTHER'S DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Special Services Will be Held at the First Baptist Church Commemorating the Occasion.

EMBLEM IS A WHITE FLOWER

Observance of Day Has Become General All Over Country—Originated Few Years Ago.

Tomorrow will be celebrated as Mother's day all over the country. The local camp of Modern Woodmen have made arrangements to remember the day by wearing a white flower. The Rev. E. C. Myers has made the announcement that the day will be celebrated at the First Baptist church. He requests that all of his congregation wear a white flower at the services. He will deliver a sermon on the subject before the Modern Woodmen of Connorsville tomorrow afternoon and in the evening here he will preach on the subject "Our Mothers." None of the other churches will observe the day.

The founder of the day was Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, who three years ago desired to commemorate the anniversary of her mother's death. It was not only the thought of laying some flowers on her mother's grave, but it occurred to her that it would be a tribute to all mothers, the living as well as the dead, if their children on a given day would unite in the simple wearing of a white flower and thus make mother's day universal. Newspapers everywhere caught up the idea and in two years it swept over not only all of North America, but was heartily welcomed in other lands. The purpose of Mother's day as conceived by Miss Jarvis is a day in which all lands as one nation may unite in honor of mother.

The second Sunday in May of each year is proposed as the day when mother is to be especially remembered and universal motherhood exalted in the esteem of every man, woman and child. The plan is to make it not only a sentimental observance, but as far as possible to clothe it with sanctity and dynamic power that comes from concerted action. That wearing of a white carnation or other white flower, the beautiful emblem of truth and purity, will be filial evidence that the wearer loves to honor his mother, living or her memory, if dead.

Governors of States and mayors of cities in past years have issued special proclamations endorsing the purpose and recommending the general celebration of the day. The day has also been marked by the special singing of mother's hymns in the home, and by special services and distribution of white flowers in the Sunday school and at the church and in other places.

RUSH COUNTY PRODUCTS

Are the Young Men Who Fill up on Wayne County Liquor.

Cases are cited where young men, members of the lawless gang who live in Rush county, says the New Castle times, drive to Lewisville, go to Cambridge City and fill up on bad liquor. Their horses have been allowed to stand for hours at the public rack without feed or drink, and, in one instance, from Saturday night until Tuesday morning.

The Rev. James Gillespie will preach in the morning at the St. Paul M. E. church in the absence of the Rev. J. W. Turner. No evening service will be held.

HENLEY DENIES BRIBERY CHARGE

Former Railroad President, a Native of Rush County, Alleged to Have Used "Slush" Fund.

BY A GRAND JURY INDICTMENT

Has Been Practicing Law in Indianapolis Since Resigning His Position February 1.

A Chicago dispatch in the Indianapolis Star says this morning that Lee O'Neil Browne, Democratic leader of the Illinois House of Representatives; Representatives Robert E. Wilson and Michael S. Link of Illinois and William J. Henley of Indianapolis, Ind., were indicted by the special grand jury which has been investigating charges of bribery, the outgrowth of alleged vote-buying in the Illinois legislature.

The indictments against the first three men were returned after the investigation of the election of United States Senator Lorimer from Illinois, while the indictment of Henley, charging embezzlement, is the outgrowth of an investigation of the use of a "slush" fund said to have been distributed in influencing railroad legislation.

Another indictment not bearing upon the Lorimer investigation, but in connection with another case of alleged legislative bribery, was returned by the jury against William J. Henley of Indianapolis, former president of the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad. This indictment charges Henley with embezzlement of the railroad's funds. It is a direct outcome of charges made by John C. Fetzer, who declared that a "slush fund" had been used in the legislature to secure the passage of the railroad legislation. The specific bill was House Bill "777," validating a $50,000, 000 bond issue made by the Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad. Fetzer said a "slush fund" of $212,000 was distributed among legislators by agents of the railroad.

A later dispatch to the Indianapolis News says: It is understood that Fetzer's charge of bribery and the employment of a "slush fund" could not be substantiated. Fetzer, it is said, told the grand jury he turned over $28,000 to Henley, who at that time was general solicitor of the road and in charge of any legislation the road might be seeking. Books and documents of the road failed to show where the money went or how it was spent. Being unable to connect this fact with Fetzer's charge of bribery, Wayman is said to have ordered the grand jury to indict Henley on a charge of embezzlement. No attention whatever was paid to the serious charges made by the officials of the road against Fetzer, Thomas and Kappes of land frauds amounting to nearly $1,000,000.

THE BEAUTY SPOT.

The Saturday popular song feature which has been noticeable by its absence for the past few weeks is again renewed today. Tonight will be found on page three of this issue, "That Was Before They Were Married," as sung by Jefferson De Angelis in "The Beauty Spot." The show played a week's stand in the Murat theater in Indianapolis and was attended by many local people. The song is one of the hits of the season and was a feature of the show in Indianapolis. The Saturday feature will be run by the Daily Republican continuously.

The Indianapolis Star in a local story says:

Notified Friday night of the indictment returned against him in Chicago on the charge of embezzlement of funds of the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad company, of which he formerly was president, William J. Henley said he would go at once to Chicago and give bond for his appearance for trial.

"I know nothing in detail of the charges against me," said Mr. Henley, "but whatever they are this indictment is unjust and without substantial base. No charge of misappropriation of the funds of the company or of any other criminal act can rest against me."

Mr. Henley formerly was a judge of the Indiana Appellate court. For four years he was counsel for the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad company, and from June 1, 1909, to Feb. 1, 1910, he was president of the company. Since the latter date he has been engaged in the practice of law in this city.

LOOKS AT ACTION IN FAVORABLE LIGHT

Investigation Reveals That Hitchcock Had Recommended Placing Deputies in Civil Service.

TAFT HAD NOT ACTED ON IT

The Hartford City Times-Gazette says the deputy postmasters all over the United States, who had the pleasure of reading an announcement a few weeks ago that they had been placed under the civil service protection, have now learned that the announcement was entirely without authority and was untrue. Investigation reveals that this action was recommended by Postmaster General Hitchcock to President Taft, but the presidents has not acted either favorably or unfavorably on the recommendation.

The Washington correspondents "got in" wrong on the matter and wired their papers that the deputies had been taken under civil service wing. Consequently there was rejoicing in all the postoffices in the country—but the pipes have gone out. It isn't true. It may become true later—but no such order has yet been issued.

FIVE TO GRADUATE FROM NEW SALEM

Commencement Exercises Will be Held in M. P. Church Next Thursday Evening.

SPEAKER FROM INDIANAPOLIS

The New Salem high school commencement exercises will be held in the M. P. church there next Thursday evening. The address will be delivered by Dr. Fredrick Heath of Indianapolis who has a reputation as a popular lecturer. Five students will be graduated at the annual exercises. A. P. Wagoner's orchestra will furnish the music.

The class is composed of two girls, the Misses Ruth Redmond Carr and Lola Maye Caldwell, and three boys, James Blaine Reeve, Paul Leslie Stewart and James Frank Carr. The members of the junior class of the high school entertained the seniors at the home of Miss Emma Cook, Thursday evening.

A baby boy was born to the wife of T. S. Bishop in North Perkins street Thursday.

ELECT OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

Most Successful Meeting of Woman's Home Missionary Society
Ever Held.

THE ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

Over Seventy People Sat Down to Luncheon Served by Local Women in Church Parlors.

What is conceded by all to be the most successful meeting ever held by the Woman's Home Missionary Society, was in session at the St. Paul M. E. church all day yesterday. The meeting yesterday was the nineteenth annual convention of the Connorsville district, Indiana conference. The convention was called to order in the morning with the district president, Mrs. C. S. Chafee of Brookville presiding.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises. After the regular business, which included the appointment of committees, the roll call of auxiliaries and the election of officers for the coming year, an address was given by Mrs. J. M. Wilson of Connorsville on the subject, "The Negro of the South in the Period of Reconstruction."

Following the address, Mrs. Cora Stewart of Shelbyville sang a beautiful solo which was much appreciated and a paper on "The Negro as a Citizen" was read by Mrs. Grace French of Shelbyville. A report of the national convention held in Los Angeles, Cal., written by Mrs. Alfred Stratford, was read by Mrs. J. E. Fisher of Brookville.

During the noon hour the convention was adjourned and the visiting delegates were entertained at luncheon. Over seventy people sat down for the noonday meal. The afternoon session was taken up with the business of the society and an able address was delivered on the subject, "Mission Work Among the Orientals in Our Country" was delivered by the Rev. B. D. Beck of College Corner, Ohio. His speech has received much favorable comment. The Rev. Mr. Beck was formerly the pastor of the Methodist church at Arlington.

The newly elected officers were installed by Dr. V. W. Tevis, assisted by the Rev. Turner and Rev. Beck, as follows: President, Mrs. C. S. Chafee, Brookville; first vice president, Mrs. Abercrombie, Rushville; second vice-president, Mrs. Hackleman, Rushville; recording secretary, Mrs. Lula Watson, Shelbyville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Crist; treasurer, Mrs. Ida Risk, Connorsville.

PAPERS A GREAT HELP

W. H. Tieman Says Press Has Assisted in Taking Census.

A dispatch from Connorsville says: "The newspapers have been a great help to me in taking the census," said W. H. Tieman, supervisor of the census in the Sixth district, today in telling how the work of census taking is progressing. Mr. Tieman claims that the press had done much towards educating the public as to the nature of the census and as to its purposes and adds that the taking of the census this year was not so difficult as it had been in former years.

EDWARD VII ENGLAND'S KING DEAD

Fatal Attack of Old Throat Trouble.

DID NOT LINGER LONG

A Couple of Days After He Was Taken Down the End Came.

GEORGE V. WIELDS SCEPTER

Son of the Late King Will Be Fifth of Name to Ascend Throne.

London, May 7.—Full of honors, but not yet full of years, Edward VII., one of the greatest kings that ever sat upon the English throne, has followed England's greatest queen to the grave after a reign of but little more than nine years.

When he came to the throne there was a natural tendency on the part of the nation to look back and wonder whether the high level which had been gradually reached and sustained in public and national life during his mother's long reign would be further maintained. The nation today gives a verdict which leaves no doubt of its favorable opinion. His touching declaration when he took the oath before the privy council that he desired and intended to rule wisely has been made good and the genuine sorrow with which his loss is deplored is a tribute to his subjects' recognition of the fact that they and the world will long remember his work for peace among the nations and the striking results he achieved therein by his tact and bonhomie.

Far more than his mother, he was intimately associated with the social life of the country without neglecting the immense demands made on his energy by business of state, and it is not too much to say that no English king had ever a deeper hold on the affections of his subjects. His loss to the nation at the moment of a serious constitutional crisis awakes the boding fears of all who have the welfare and dignity of Great Britain at heart. His vast knowledge of men, his singular insight into affairs and his incomparable judgment were assets which the nation could ill afford to lose.

It may well be that the burden of anxiety in this connection hastened his end. As Victoria's last hours were crowded by the dark shadow of the South African war, so King Edward in his closing days was harassed by a fierce constitutional conflict which he bequeaths for solution to a young man far less acquainted than his father with matters of state.

The king breathed his last at 11:45 Friday night in the presence of her majesty Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the princesses royal, the Duchess of Fife, Princess Victoria, and Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll. As no official announcement was posted outside the palace or declaration made, the waiting crowd was for some time in ignorance that the end had come. The Prince and Princess of Wales and nearly all the other members of the royal family left the palace within half an hour of the king's death and the people interpreted this as a hopeful sign. It was not until the reporters, who had been officially notified by Lord Knollys, the king's private secretary, had passed the word around that the watchers knew that all was over.

Notwithstanding the grave bulletins that had been issued, the news fell heavily on the anxious crowd, who had hoped against hope. They received the tidings with every manifestation of keen regret. The news reached the public over the tickers just as the theater supper crowds were leaving the restaurants. Silence fell upon the crowds who went sorrowfully home. London was anxious all day. The

GEORGE V.

Succeeds to England's Throne
During a Time of Crisis.

Clarence, having been born in November, 1863. With his brother, the then heir apparent to the throne, he received his early education at Marlborough House and at Sandringham.

When he was fourteen years old, with his brother Clarence, he made a famous three-years' tour around the world, their royal highnesses being regularly enrolled on the training ship Britannia as cadets. After the educational tour was over Prince George was regularly made a lieutenant in the navy. Clarence then took up his studies in the University of Cambridge, but Prince George continued his career as a naval officer, and in 1890 commanded a gunboat in the British navy. In 1892 he was made a post captain and also received the title of Duke of York. While a lieutenant Prince George sailed on the Thunderer to the Mediterranean, where the ship was laid up at Malta for three months for repairs. It was during his Malta visit that Prince George met the daughter of a British naval officer, with whom it is generally believed he contracted a marriage which, though regularly solemnized by an ordained clergyman, was not a legal marriage under the act of parliament passed early in the last century regulating the marriage of persons of the blood royal. As the Duke of Clarence was then living, and indeed engaged to be wedded to Princess Mary of Teck, this irregular marriage of Prince George did not create much sensation, as it was assumed that the marriage of the Duke of Clarence would provide a further direct heir to the British throne. But a month before the date fixed for the marriage of the Duke of Clarence, he died. This made the Duke of York the heir apparent, and then the status of his alliance with the "Lady of Malta," as the woman concerned was generally referred to, became a matter of much importance. No question was involved as to the claims of her children—it was generally believed that there were children by this illegal marriage—as the woman was not of a rank to entitle her legally to claim to be the wife of the Duke of York.

THE NEW QUEEN MAY

Trouble arose, however, when the Duke of York did not readily fall in with the plan of Queen Victoria that he should marry Princess Mary of Teck. Rumor had it at the time that the Duke of York asked the advisers of the court to have his Malta marriage legalized by parliament. The wishes of Queen Victoria, which were shared by the then Princess of Wales, prevailed, and in May, 1893, his engagement to the Princess Mary was announced and their marriage took place July 6 in the chapel royal, St. James. Princess Mary, the new queen, was born in Kensington palace May 26, 1867. The English people generally speak of her as the Princess May. She is her husband's cousin both on her father's and mother's side. Queen Victoria arranged while the Princess Mary was a baby for her marriage with the Duke of Clarence, and the young princess was educated as future queen of England. She developed some talent as an artist and her paintings have been privately exhibited and praised.

The children of the new king are: Edward, born June 23, 1894; Albert, Dec. 14, 1895; Mary, April 25, 1897; Henry, March 31, 1900; George, Dec. 20, 1902, and John, July 12, 1905.

It Is Thus That the New King of England Will Be Known.

George Frederick Ernest Albert, prince of Wales and earl of Chester, duke of Cornwall, earl of Dublin, duke of York, earl of Inverness and Baron Killarney, who by the death of Edward VII., becomes king of England, presumably as George V., was born at Marlborough House, London, on June 3, 1865. He was the second son of the late king, his elder brother, Duke of

IT WAS HARDLY RECOGNIZABLE

House Defaces Railroad Bill Shockingly.

SEVERE BLOW TO PRESIDENT

This Was the Measure Upon Which the Administration Had Centered Its Fondest Hopes, and It Comes Out of the Legislative Hopper All Tattered and Torn—The President Rallying His Drooping Forces.

Washington, May 7.—The administration railroad bill, hardly recognizable as the measure that was introduced by Representative Townsend, was passed by the house in committee of the whole late yesterday afternoon. By agreement the bill will come to final vote in the house itself next Tuesday, but the action in committee indicates the passage of the bill by the house.

Representative Adamson, minority member of the interstate commerce committee, served notice that when the bill comes up for final action on Tuesday he will move to recommit it, with instructions that the commerce court feature be stricken out. This is one of the few important provisions remaining in the bill as urged by the administration. The house followed the lead of the senate and eliminated the merger section of the bill on motion of Mr. Adamson by a vote of 131 to 128. The Democrats and the Republican insurgents, strengthened by four or five regulars, voted solidly to drop the section.

Motions to strike out Sections 13, 14 and 15 were voted down by substantial majorities. These sections provide regulation for the capitalization of railroad corporations.

Without division the amendment offered by Representative Mann of the interstate commerce committee, in charge of the bill, providing that the aggregate amount of stocks and bonds issued by a new corporation shall not exceed the estimated value of the property of the reorganized corporation, was agreed to. Mr. Mann also secured the adoption of another amendment to the same section providing that the stocks and bonds of another railroad corporation acquired under this section shall not be distributed unless the distribution is authorized by the interstate commerce committee.

While the house was making some progress with the railroad bill, President Taft was making plans with administration supporters in the senate to bring pressure to bear on some of the wavering Republicans in that body. After the visit of two senate leaders to the White House the announcement was made that Mr. Taft has decided to cancel his engagement to go to New York next Thursday to attend the launching of the battleship Florida.

Frank Patchen is a dark bay, 15-3 hands high and weighs 1200, four years old.

While Frank Patchen is strictly trotting bred, he is a typical general purpose horse and sound and a good individual.

First dam Roy Wilkes, 2:06 1/4.

Second dam, Allie Wilkes, 2:13 1/4.

Third dam by Tobe, dam of Nellie McCrory, 2:10 1/4—trial, 2:05.

All three of these dams were big mares weighing 1200 or more.

Will make the season until July 1st at Smalley's Feed Barn at Rushville up to 6 o'clock each day and after six o'clock at my place on Milroy pike, second house across the Big Four Railroad

SPECIAL EXTRA The Very Latest Patterns in United Clothes

We announce a full line of the handsome new styles in United Clothes and we want you to come and see them.

Here are clothes made on lines designed by a master-designer who draws an enormous salary—not copies from fashion plates.

They are clothes sewed with pure dye silk—not a stitch is of cotton. Even the buttons are put on with pure Irish linen thread. They never come off.

More than a thousand skilled people are employed in making United Clothes. That means a gigantic production, which in turn means better clothes at lower prices than any smaller concern could possibly offer.

Come in and look over the styles. See how United Clothes look on you.

Death Ends Career of the Late Queen Victoria's Famous Son

A trolley line 800 miles long is a project strongly backed in South Dakota. The interurban idea has crossed the Mississippi and is marching on vigorously.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson recommends soil conservation as the remedy for the high prices of food. The proposed cures are numerous, but this can be accepted as one of the surest and best.

Looking to 1912 the Democrats will have trouble in finding an available candidate. Mayor Gaynor could not carry Ohio, and Judson Harmon could not carry New York. Bryan is an impossibility and Bailey an absurdity.

Mr. Bryan is to speak for Mr. Kern as a candidate for senator in Indiana. It might be well for Mr. Kern to look across the river and see the remains of the Democrat in Kentucky for whom Mr. Bryan did the same thing last year.

Mr. Carnegie is quoted as admiring President Taft and deploring the latter's super-sensitiveness to criticism and his over-anxiety to please. That is the way Mr. Carnegie puts it and it points to the one weakness, albeit an amiable one, in the character of our splendid President.

It is stated in one of the financial journals that the loans of the national banks in this country have increased more than eight hundred million dollars in the last two years. This amount added to the loans of the State and private institutions runs the total far above a billion dollars.

On every hand and in every phase of life there is an amazing indifference on the part of parents to the doings and associations of their young. Children come and go, by day and in the evenings, much as they please. For this very reason a good many of them go straight to destruction. There is no sadder or more ominous spectacle in American life today than the neglect of parental duty, the failure to control and direct aright the childish mind, the practical abandonment of children to their own wayward impulses.

Now the baseball player is very much in the limelight. Though his movements are being chronicled and discussed to an almost unlimited extent, in a few short weeks he must give way temporarily to the "sweet girl graduate" and the June bride. The young man who is graduated gets little attention. After he has told the world how to reform itself he is forced to retire from publicity long enough to get a job. If he is fortunate enough to get a position as motorman or chauffeur he may get a "write-up" when he runs someone down. Otherwise he is not heard from.

A Minister's Comment

An exchange says: Here is a minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent editorial convention he offered the following toast: To save an editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from despair send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes bury him. Obituary.

Frances Elizabeth Austen daughter of Edward and Mary Austen, was born January 20, 1827 in Baltimore, Maryland, and departed this life May 1, 1910. She moved with her parents to Fayette county, Indiana, when six years of age. She was married to Ephraim S. Frazee March 9, 1847 and resided on the home farm in Rush county until her death. She united with the Christian church when sixteen years of age and continued a faithful and constant member while she lived. Her highest interest and that for which she so earnestly and faithfully labored, was in the cause of Christ. She was the mother of twelve children, for whom she lovingly gave the strength and energy of a faithful life. Six of her children are living. The deceased are, George Douphan Frazee, Susan Robinson, Isabel Campbell, twin daughters, Mary Frazee. The living are, Esther Catherine Lindsay, Edward Austen, Ephraim, John Paul, Lewis Anderson and Fannie Hamilton. Her entire life was one of loving service, true to her husband, true to her home, true to her children, true to her friends, and true to her God. While deprived in childhood of an opportunity of ever attending a public school, her ambition and strength were such that she acquired a fine literary education, which enabled her to enjoy the best there was in literature, and until within a few days of her departure from this life she derived much satisfaction from reading the current writings of the religious press. As she drew near to the close of her earthly life and she approached the dark stream separating this world from the beyond, she grew anxious that her spirit might take its flight, and that she might cross over to the land of her loved ones that have gone before. May the work that she has done receive the Lord's blessing, and may those whom she has blessed go on blessing others, that her labors may bring forth a continuous harvest.

How to Cure Eczema, Pimples, And Dandruff.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO, we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, pimples, and dandruff. Yet, we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase, we give a booklet on skin disease explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy. F. E. Wolcott, Druggist.

FLYING SQUADRON VISITS RUSHVILLE

Twelve Autos Filled With Enthusiasts
From Connersville Stormed
the City Last Night.

ADVERTISING MAY FESTIVAL

Twelve automobiles filled with enthusiasts composed the "Flying Squadron" which came from Connersville yesterday evening to advertise the May Festival which will be held in that city next week. The crowd took supper at the Windsor hotel and then went to the assembly room of the court house where a short meeting was held. Several Rushville people turned out to welcome the visitors from the neighboring city. Short speeches were made by several Connersville people, inviting Rushvillians to attend their coming festival.

The "squadron" consisted of the automobiles of E. D. Johnston, L. A. Frazee, G. W. Ansted, F. A. Bosler, L. E. Green, Dr. J. R. Mountain, E. B. Ansted, A. E. Leiter, Dr. H. M. Zehrung, F. N. Coats and R. T. Huston, driven by their respective owners. Several women were in the party.

All of the school teachers of the city will join in entertaining the Misses Mary Lewis and Nelle Bigham, who are soon to be brides, at the home of Miss Belle Gregg in North Jackson street this evening. Very elaborate arrangements have been made for the affair. The whole interior of the house has been artistically decorated so that it presents a very beautiful appearance. No one will attend aside from the teachers of the city schools. A several course dinner will be served.

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaudet will have a complete change of program tonight.

The Palace theater will have a complete change of program tonight.

The Star Grand presents tonight a comedy film entitled "His Hunting Trip." There is an excellent idea in this big comedy, which is full of fun from the very start to its roaring finish and the hunting scenes in this picture are very interesting and full of funny incidents, which ought to please the show going people. Rushville's favorite singer, Earl Robertson, will sing "Until the End of Time."

BLEW NOSE TOO HARD.

William Titus, a laborer of Richmond is suffering from a most peculiar accident. He blew his nose so severely that he dislocated one of his eyes to such an extent it turned over in the socket. Titus has been examined by physicians and specialists and an attempt will be made to restore the eye to its normal position without injury to the sight.

Abe Martin says today: "William Jennings Bud has finished his essay, 'Life's Feverish Battle Now Begun,' an' will graduate next week, but won't resume his position at th' saw mill till after th' comet. This is th' first year I ever bought circus tickets an' May coal on th' same day."

A Story of Graustark

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

CHAPTER XXI.

"YOU WILL BE MRS. KING."

IT was late in the day when Truxton King was summoned to the devastated state chamber to be made a baron, and the prince completed the American's reward by presenting him with an ancient gold seal ring, one of the crown jewels.

Late that night it was reported at the castle that a large force of men were encamped on the opposite side of the river. A hundred campfires were gleaming against the distant uplands.

"The Grand Duke Paulus!" exclaimed Count Halfont. "Thank God he did not come a day earlier. We owe him nothing today, but yesterday—ah, he could have demanded much of us!"

In one of the wrecked approaches to the terrace, surrounded by fragments of stone and confronted by ugly destruction, sat a young man and a slender girl. There were no lights near them. The shadows were black and forbidding.

His arm was about her; her head nestled securely against his shoulder, and her slim hands were willing prisoners in one of his.

She was saying: "Truxton, dear, I did not love Eric Vos Engo. I just thought it was love. I never really knew what love was until you came into my life. That's what made it so hard. I had let him believe that I might care for him some day. And I did like him. So I—"

"You will never, never know how happy I am, Lorraine!" he breathed into her ear.

"I hope I shall always bring happiness to you, Truxton," she murmured, faint with the joy of loving.

"You will make me very unhappy if you don't marry me tomorrow."

"I will marry you, Truxton, when we get to New York," she said, but not very firmly. He saw his advantage.

He held her close for a long time, his face buried in her hair. "Listen, darling! Won't you say you'll be my wife before I leave Graustark? I want you so much. I can't go away without you."

She hesitated. "When are you going, Truxton? You—you haven't told me."

It was what he wanted. "I am going next Monday," he said promptly. As a matter of fact, he had forgotten the day of the week they were now living in.

"Monday? Oh, dear!"

"Will you?"

"I—I must cable home first," she faltered.

"That's a mere detail, darling. Cable afterward. It will beat us home by three weeks. They'll know we're coming."

"I must ask John, really I must, Truxton," she protested faintly.

"Hurray!" he shouted—in a whisper. "He is so desperately in love he won't think of refusing anything we ask. Shall we set it for Saturday?"

They set it for Saturday without consulting John Tullis and then fell to discussing him. "He is very much in love with her," she said wistfully. "And she loves him, Lorraine. They will be very happy. She's wonderful!"

"Well, so is John. He's the most wonderful man in all this world."

"I am sure of it," he agreed magnanimously. "I saw him talking with her and the Duke of Perse as I came out awhile ago. They were going to the duke's rooms up there. The duke will offer no objections. He'll permit his daughter to select his next son-in-law."

"I shall be sorry to leave Graustark," she said dreamily after a long period of silent retrospection. "I've had the happiest year of my life here."

"I've had the busiest month of my life here. I'll never again say that the world is a dull place. I shudder when I think of what might have happened to you, my princess sweetheart, if I hadn't come to Edelweiss. I would not have found you." Feeling her trembling in his arms, he went on with whimsical good humor: "You would have been eaten up by the ogre long before this, or perhaps you would have succeeded in becoming a countess."

"As it is, I shall be a baroness."

"In Graustark, but not in New York. That reminds me. You'll be more than a baroness—more than a princess. You will be a queen. Don't you catch the point? You will be Mrs. King."

The Grand Duke Paulus was distinctly annoyed. He had traveled many miles, endured quite a number of hardships, and all to no purpose. When dawn came his emissaries returned from the city with the lamentable information that the government had righted itself, that Marian's sensational revolution was at an end and that the regents would be highly honored if his excellency could overlook the distressingly chaotic conditions at court and condescend to pay the castle a visit.

The grand duke resolved that he would visit the castle in a very informal way, extend his congratulations and offer his services, which he knew would be declined with thanks. Incidentally he would mention the bond issue; also he would find the opportunity to suggest to the ministry that his government still was willing to make large grants and stupendous promises if any sort of arrangement could be made by which the system might be operated in conjunction with branch lines of the imperial roads.

And so it was that at midday he rode in pomp and splendor through the city gates, attended by his staff and a rather overpowering bodyguard.

The grand duke, with all the arrogance of a real personage, was late. It was not for him to consider the conditions that distressed the court of Graustark—not at all. He was a grand duke and he would take his own time in paying his respects. When he finally presented himself at the castle doors a sleepy group of attendants actually yawned in his presence.

No one had slept during the night just passed. Excitement and the suffering of others had denied slumber to one and all, even to those who had not slept for many days and nights. Now the reaction was upon them. Relaxation had succeeded tenseness.

When the grand duke entered the great, somber throne room he was confronted by a punctiliously polite assemblage, but every eyelid was as heavy as lead and as prone to sink.

The prince sat far back in the great chair of his ancestors, his sturdy legs sticking straight out in front of him. The grand duke advanced between the respectful lines and knelt at the foot of the throne.

"Arise, your highness," piped Bobby, with a quick glance at Count Halfont. It was a faint, faraway voice that uttered the gracious command. "Graustark welcomes the Grand Duke Paulus. It is my pleasure to—to—" A helpless look came into his eyes. He looked everywhere for support. The grand duke saw that he had forgotten the rehearsed speech and smiled benignly as he stepped forward and kissed the hand that had been extended some what uncertainly.

"My most respectful homage to your majesty. The felicitations of my emperor and the warmest protestations

The Third Degree.

If a delightful and powerful story appeals to you, it would be a great mistake to miss "The Third Degree," the serial story which begins in next Monday's issue of the Daily Republican. It is a beautiful story of the untiring devotion of a faithful wife to her husband; how she attempts to save his life from destruction in the electric chair; and how she is finally successful in her life's mission, that of saving the name which she bears from degradation. It is powerfully told, bearing all of the earmarks of a twentieth century novel.

The story should especially appeal to local people in view of the fact that many saw the dramatic version both in Indianapolis and Connerville. It has scored a remarkable success in all of the leading theaters in the United States. Many playgoers will remember Helen Ware who played in "The Third Degree" in Indianapolis and should read it for that if for no other reason. As a story it is said to be stronger than its stage representation.

of friendship from his people."

With this as a prologue he engaged himself in the ever pleasurable task of delivering a long congratulatory address. After five minutes of high sounding platitudes he again turned to the prince. It was then that he received his first shock.

Prince Robin was sound asleep. His head was slipping sideways along the satiny back of the big chair, and his chin was very low in the laces at his neck. The grand duke coughed emphatically, cleared his throat and grew very red in the face.

The court of Graustark was distinctly dismayed.

"His majesty appears to have—ahem—gone to sleep," remarked the grand duke tartly, interrupting himself to address the prime minister.

"He is very tired, your excellency," said Count Halfont, very much distressed. "Pray consider what he has been through during the—"

"Ah, my dear count, do not apologize for him. I quite understand. Ahem! Ahem! Still, he was very red in the face."

"I will awaken him, your excellency," said the prime minister, edging toward the throne.

"Not at all, sir," protested the visitor. "Permit him to have his sleep out, sir. I will not have him disturbed. Who am I that I should defeat the claims of nature? It is my pleasure to wait until his majesty's nap is over. Then he may dismiss us, but not until we have cried 'Long live the prince!'"

For awhile they stood in awkward silence, this notable gathering of men and women. Then the prime minister in hushed tones suggested that it would be eminently proper under the circumstances for all present to be seated. He was under the impression that his serene highness would sleep long and soundly.

Stiff backed and uncomfortable, the court sat and waited. No one pretended to conceal the blissful yawns that would not be denied. A drowsy, ineffably languid feeling took possession of the entire assemblage.

The prime minister sat at the foot of the throne and nodded in spite of himself. John Tullis, far back near the wall, had his head on his hand, bravely fighting off the persistent demon. Prince Danton of Dawsbergen was sound asleep.

The grand duke was wide awake. He saw it all and was equal to the occasion. After all, he was a kindly old gentleman and, once his moment of mortification was over, he was not above charity.

Bobby's poor little head had slipped over to a most uncomfortable position against the arm of the chair. Putting his finger to lips, the grand duke tipped carefully up to the throne. With very gentle hands he lifted Bobby's head and, infinitely tender, stuffed a throne cushion behind the curly head. A splendid smile in his eyes, he tipped back to his chair.

As he passed Count Halfont, who had risen, he whispered:

"Dear little man! I do not forget, my lord, that I was once a boy. God bless him!"

Then he sat down, conscious of a fine feeling of goodness, folded his arms across his expansive chest and allowed his beaming eyes to rest upon

"DEAR LITTLE MAN! GOD BLESS HIM!"

the sleeping boy far back in the chair of state. Incidentally he decided to delay a few days before taking up the bond question with the ministry. The grand duke was not an ordinary diplomat.

In one of the curtained windows, far removed from the throne, sat Truxton King and Lorraine Tullis.

All about them people were watching the delicate little scene, smiling drowsily at the grand duke's tender comedy. No one was looking at the two in the curtained recess. Her hand was in his; her head sank slowly toward his inviting shoulder. Her heavy lids drooped lower and lower, refusing to obey the slender will that argued against complete surrender. At last her soft, regular breathing told him that she was asleep. Awaiting his opportunity, he tenderly kissed the soft brown hair, murmured a gentle word of love and settled his own head against the thick cushions.

Everywhere they dozed and nodded. The grand duke smiled and blinked his little eyes. He was very wide awake.

That is how he happened to see the prince move restlessly and half open his sleep bound eyes. The grand duke leaned forward with his hand to his ear and listened. He had seen the boy's lips move. From dreamland came Bobby's belated "Good night."

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

Time it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped the same thousands by my private prescription of personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal bill brings the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy drug-gist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all drug-gists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all dollars. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

An Expert's Opinion of Skin Disease.

A prominent, national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin disease, dandruff, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. Mr. F. E. Wolcott will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin disease and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

Facts for Weak Women

SWALLOWED UP BY THE EARTH

Costa Rica Devastated By Earthquakes.

FEEBLE LINE TELLS STORY

The Overwhelmed Region Is Practically Cut Off From Communication, but Enough Has Come Out to Indicate a Death Loss of Nearly Two Thousand—First Estimate of 500 Dead Was Only a Puny Accounting.

Port Limon, May 7.—The interior of Costa Rica has been devastated by earthquakes. Much of Cartago is in ruins. Conservative tabulations place the number of dead at 1,800.

The country to the north and northeast of San Jose has been cleaved open. Entire villages have been undermined and lost in the maw of the quake. Telegraphic communication between Port Limon and San Jose was lost for twenty-four hours. As it is now, only a feeble line tells the story of death in the interior.

Cartago probably has suffered the greatest pecuniary loss. The Temple of Justice, erected by Andrew Carnegie, was bent to the ground, just as scores of humble huts surrounding it were razed by the earth's twisting. It has been impossible to get the full truth of the loss that interior Costa Rica has suffered. It was in the mountain country that the greatest damage was done, so far as lives are reckoned. The first estimate of 500 dead is only a puny accounting of the list. The earthquake smote its worst blow at noon on Wednesday. In the flash of an eye scores of buildings went down in Cartago. The Carnegie Palace of Justice crumbled into dust. The earth opened beneath it. The Carmen church went in much the same manner.

In the mountain country there were scores of villages and humble settlements that dropped out of sight. The loss accruing from damage to banana and rubber plantations alone is enormous. The first news of the calamity was brought to San Jose by couriers from the interior. From villages to the north and northwest there came the same story of death and devastation. Between Cartago and San Jose much the same condition prevails. No refugees have come in. There are no refugees. It seems, according to couriers, as if death had suddenly stricken the entire country.

Government tabulations from San Jose, accounted from the couriers' relations, place the number of dead at 1,800. Probably it will run more than this number.

Details are unobtainable here. An attempt to get the names of towns destroyed was futile. "Almost everything is gone," is the only response that specific queries bring.

Port Limon was rocked with the earthquake, but there was no damage here.

THE LORIMER SCANDAL

Three Indictments Returned by Special Grand Jury.

Chicago, May 7.—Indictments against three members of the Illinois general assembly, one charging bribery and two charging perjury, have been voted by the special grand jury which has been delving into the legislative bribery scandal. The three true bills, which cover both phases of the confessions of Representative Charles A. White of O'Fallon and H. J. C. Beckmeyer of Carlisle, that they received $1,000 each for voting for William Lorimer for United States senator and that later they each got a share in a legislative "jackpot" that was split up in St. Louis, were returned against the following: Representative Lee O'Neil Browne of Ottawa, minority leader of the house, indicted for bribery on fifteen counts, setting up that he paid to Representative Charles A. White $850 as part of a $1,000 bribe for voting for Senator Lorimer. Bond fixed at $15,000.

Representative Robert E. Wilson of Chicago, indicted for willful and corrupt perjury, for swearing before the grand jury that he did not hand any money to anybody in St. Louis July 15, 1909, the day it is alleged the "jackpot" was divided. Bail fixed at $15,000.

Representative Michael S. Link of Mitchell, indicted for perjury, for swearing before the grand jury that he was in St. Louis July 15, 1909, and did not meet Robert H. E. Wilson in that city on that date. Bail fixed at $15,000.

Suit Against J. R. Keane.

New York, May 7.—H. D. Hotchkiss, receiver of the suspended stock exchange firm of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., has brought suit against James R. Keane on account of the transaction with the pool in Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron.

Jury Acquits Detective.

Fayetteville, W. Va., May 7.—Acquittal was speedily voted by a jury in the case of Albert C. Felts, superintendent of a private detective agency, who had been on trial charged with highway robbery.

The Massachusetts house of representatives, by a vote of 126 to 102, killed the income tax resolution.

THE UTMOST HARMONY

Marks Action of Republicans in Northern Indiana.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, May 7.—The nomination by acclamation of Gus Grieger of Hanna as a Republican candidate for joint representative from Laporte and Porter counties places in the field a probable candidate for speaker of the next house of representatives. Mr. Grieger's nomination was brought about in the utmost harmony and with acclamation. He was instructed to vote for Senator Beveridge in 1911, and pledged himself to that vote in his speech accepting the nomination. Mr. Grieger is expected by his friends to become a foremost factor in the next speakership contest, and they will bend all their energies to the election of a Republican house, in order that Mr. Grieger may obtain deserved and desired recognition. Mr. Grieger was prominently mentioned as a possible nominee for a state office, but he declined to run, choosing rather to repeat his good record in the legislature. It is said that Grieger is assured of reelection next fall.

Jack Nolan, former mayor of Evansville, is on Governor Marshall's list of desirable citizens. It is intimated that Mr. Nolan is to have a $4,000 job in the Marshall administration, probably as a tax commissioner. Does this explain why Vanderburgh county gave part of its delegation to the Marshall plan for state convention endorsement of a Democratic senatorial candidate? It can be asserted with safety that Mr. Nolan would exert his influence, whatever it might be, in behalf of the governor. The executive admires Jack Nolan. If it is true that Mr. Nolan did use all his force to break into the airtight Taggart delegation in Vanderburgh, getting a bunch of those delegates to assist in forcing through a senatorial selection, there will be a lot of interest in the outcome, and many people will keep an eye on Jack Nolan to see what he receives in the shape of reward for his work. The story is that Nolan was able to use some delegates because the delegates believed that it would be to Nolan's best interests to permit him to have his way. In any event, the forces that Nolan and his friends weaned away from Taggart in Evansville were strong enough to save the governor from entire humiliation, and enough to put a crimp in Taggart, the boss.

They are telling how Dekalb county, pledged solidly to vote with the Taggart people and against Governor Marshall on the senatorship matter, gave the Taggartites the double cross at the last and voted as a unit for the Marshall plan. Dekalb is in the Twelfth, where Steve Fleming put on the unit rule and sought to compel not only Dekalb, but part of Steuben to vote for Marshall's scheme. It is known that there was strong and serious revolt against the forcing process. But everything was smoothed out. How was it done? Steve Fleming, the Fort Wayne boss brewer, knows. The wise ones, who may or may not know the facts, declare that Steve Fleming has been assigned the pleasant task of reorganizing the oil inspection department of the state of Indiana. Sid Conger, oil inspector, is expected to hang onto his job until Jan. 1, next. That is, if he cannot be shaken loose, he will hold the place the rest of the year. It is said that Governor Marshall will turn the department over to Steve Fleming to be organized on Democratic political lines and after the peculiar Fleming method. If there is truth in this story, then it is not difficult to explain the occult and mysterious influences by means of which Fleming was able, at the last, to change Taggart votes into Marshall votes and rally a solid Twelfth district to do the will of the "Little Giant," rather than the best of the French Lick boss.

Looking back at the Democratic state convention, the observer of Indiana politics is struck by one solitary, if not lonesome, figure—the isolated and chagrined, humiliated and ignored Senator Ben Shively. St. Joseph county, where Senator Shively should have commanded absolutely, was lost to him and divided against him on the senatorial proposition. He was unable to control other counties in his district, the Thirteenth. His bitter foes at home rose and smote him shrewdly from the rear. He was foolish enough to rise in the convention and to speak against the scheme for endorsing a candidate for United States senator. His speech was received coldly and critically. The delegates went from Shively's advice and deliberately acted contrary to his expressed desires and arguments. Their action in favor of a senatorial nomination by state delegates not only was a slap in the face following his argument against the idea, but it was a direct rebuke aimed at the legislative caucus which elected Shively senator in 1909 under secret ballot pressure and by trick play. But that was not the worst.

Having ignored Shively's arguments against a senatorial endorsement, the delegates went on and nominated John W. Kern, the man of all men who had most cause to despise Shively and to denounce the secret ballot caucus of 1909. In Shively's humiliation was the triumph of Kern. Hollow as the Kern victory may turn out to be, there is no doubt whatever as to the bitterness of the dose administered to Shively and his tricky friends when Kern was chosen as a senatorial candidate. Shively was beaten at every turn and shamed by a majority of his party delegates in the most positive and public was Susie—climbing trees and fences, jumping ditches, whittling, always getting scratches, cuts, sprains, bruises, bumps, burns or scalds. But laws! Her mother just applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve and cured her quick. Heals everything healable—Boils, Uleers, Eczema, Old Sores, Corns or Piles. Try it. 25c. at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidney are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerves. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by F. E. Wolcott.

HAS BECOME A NOTED WOMAN

Miss Florence Simms, Who Once Lived Here, Sails For Europe to Attend Conference.

IS DELEGATE TO CONVENTION
Has Gained a Wide Reputation as Lecturer on Women's Industrial Conditions.

Many local people will remember Miss Florence Simms who formerly lived in this city. The Mattoon, Ill., Morning Star says of her trip to Europe:

Miss Florence Simms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Simms, 816 South Sixteenth street, sailed Wednesday for Berlin, Germany, to attend the world's conference of the Young Woman's Christian Association which is to be held in that city May 14 to 26.

Miss Simms is one of the national secretaries of the association and her headquarters are in New York City. She was to have sailed for London in April and had planned to spend the entire summer in Europe, but was called to Mattoon by the illness of her sister, Mrs. Claude Smithley, her trip being postponed for that reason.

She goes to the conference as a delegate from the national Y. W. C. A. and will deliver one of the principal addresses before this great body of workers, representing a world-wide movement. She is interested in industrial problems and recently made a canvass of the mill villages of behalf of the women employed there and studying the conditions which prevail. Her talk at Berlin will be specially devoted to this line of effort.

She will remain in Europe only until the close of the assembly and expects to be home again by the first of June, returning as soon as possible on account of Mrs. Smithley's condition.

GRANDDAUGHTERS AT POINT OF DEATH

Miss Lucile Wilson of Portland, Ore., and Miss Frances Capp Not Expected to Live.

LEFT HERE FEW MONTHS AGO

Two granddaughters of Mrs. J. W. Brown of East Third street are lying at the point of death, Miss Frances Capp, who has been suffering several months, and Miss Lucile Wilson of Portland, Oregon, who has been ill for several weeks with a severe attack of typhoid fever. Mrs. Brown received word this morning that her granddaughter in the far West could not possibly live. Miss Capp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Capp, has been ill at the Sexton sanitarium and no hope has been entertained for her recovery. Her death has been almost hourly expected for the past few days. She was, however, reported to be slightly improved today.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Wilson, whose daughter is now critically ill, only a few months ago left this city for their new home in the West. Shortly after their arrival, their daughter, who had been attending school in West Virginia, was taken sick. She was very sick for a time and later improved. Now comes the word that she has suffered a relapse and cannot live.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

MULL VISITS HANCOCK.

(Greenfield Reporter.)

Lon Mull of Manilla, Rush county, one of the Democratic candidates for the nomination to congress in the Sixth district, was in Greenfield Friday. He said that he would spend two days here and expected to see all the delegates to the convention while here. He is here after the delegates. It has been assumed that the delegates of this county would be for the Rev. T. H. Kuhn as this is his native county, and in some townships they have been instructed for him, but it is said that some of the delegates are not for him but are for Mr. Mull. There are fifteen delegates in this county.

REVALEE TALKS OF MURDER.

(Richmond Item.)

Roy Prichard of Cambridge City, who has been employed in Michigan City stopped in this city for a short time yesterday on his way home. Prichard's brother-in-law is an official in the State prison and while visiting him he obtained permission to see Charles Revallee. Prichard states that Revallee has not been assigned a position as yet, but will have one assigned to him in a short time. He also states that Revallee still remains indifferent and talks about the murder of Mrs. Allison, the same as when he was in this city. Mr. Prichard is well acquainted with Revallee, having known him from childhood.

WILL MAKE DRY MAJORITY.

(Richmond Item.)

On account of the increase in the number of drunks Mayor Forkner of New Castle has raised the fine of Cambridge City drunks from $5 to $10 and costs. Every Saturday night the interurban cars and railroad trains are loaded with men returning home from Cambridge City, Richmond and other cities, and a great deal of disturbance is raised and considerable trouble is experienced.

Every case, recorded and remembered, inevitably rolls up the vote that will make this county dry next time if this abuse is not stopped. It is time, not only for temperance men but for the brewery and saloon interests as well, to see that their Cambridge City associates are subjected to better discipline than that which allows this sort of scandal in a neighboring county.

MAY RE-OPEN OLD WAR.

(New Castle Courier.)

The assault of Kenneth Butts, a Muncie high school boy, recently by a crowd of fifteen boys who are members of the Kappa Alpha Pi high school fraternity, probably will precipitate another controversy between the high school faculty and the students over the existence of

"frats." Several months ago, after a year of disturbance between the students and the faculty, members of the outlawed fraternity were required to sign pledges that they would at once end their membership. Students were admitted to school only on such conditions. Now, apparently, there is ample proof that the fraternities have continued to exist, as the attack on young Butts was made because, as alleged, he had been expelled from this "frat" and had continued to wear its pin. Action will be taken by the Muncie school board at once.
